MESSAGE

Vigilance cannot be an activity merely to prevent corruption but it has to acquire a more meaningful role. It has to be seen as a part of the overall risk management strategy of an organization whereby systems are built in such a manner as to prevent leakage. The need of the hour is continuous research in the field of system improvement, developing methods of absolute transparency in working and more and more use of information technology in furtherance of the objective of zero tolerance for corruption.

I am sure that the Vigilance Awareness Period observed from 25th October, 2010 to 1st November, 2010 in the various organisations/ Departments will sensitize the people about the adverse consequences of corruption and make them aware about the various methods and systems by which this can be prevented.

My best wishes on the occasion.
